Firm Profile

Peace Talks Mediation Services, Inc., teams lawyers and therapists as mediators to help couples resolve divorce and custody issues in a sane, sensible and fair way at a reasonable cost.

Mediation is a method for couples to resolve their financial and parenting issues without court intervention. With the help of a neutral 3rd party (mediator), the couple identifies issues, discusses their interests, considers different options, and works toward making proposals and tentative agreements. By leaving the substance of the settlement up to the participants, mediation insures a settlement which is well tailored to the parties' interests and needs. Because the parties are the decision-makers, mediated agreements typically have a much higher adherence rate than court orders. More information: www.peace-talks.com
